Kraft Enterprise Systems adds two team members; expands to Atlanta

BRENTWOOD, Tenn. – Kraft Enterprise Systems, LLC (KES), has announced the addition of two team members: Glenn Hofmann is serving as the NetSuite practice director, and Gaetjens Cadet is the company’s vice president of sales.

KES, an affiliate of Nashville-based KraftCPAs PLLC, is a premier provider of business software solutions, offering specialized services for the selection, implementation and support of enterprise software systems. These technology solutions help empower companies to refine and automate business processes, manage customer relationships and enhance bottom-line performance.

Hofmann comes to KES with more than 25 years of experience with complex ERP deployments, both as an IT leader and a business systems consultant. For the past seven years, he was focused on NetSuite, playing a key role in more than 20 deployments. The addition of Hofmann, who is based in Atlanta, not only strengthens KES’s NetSuite practice, but also extends KES’s reach into that market.

“While we certainly don’t have a geographic barrier for the clients we can and do serve, we realized that there was much to gain from expanding into Atlanta,” said Meredith Schultenover, managing director of KES. “We are excited to have a presence in another major city, as we already service multiple clients in Atlanta and are continuing to add more.”

As the VP of sales, Cadet is responsible for acquiring new business, creating strategic growth initiatives, and delivering optimal client experiences in all markets served by KES.

He has more than 20 years of sales and leadership experience with an extensive background in consulting with clients on business growth through technology solutions.

“We’re fortunate to have Gaetjens and Glenn on our team,” Schultenover said. “Their leadership, experience and expertise providing advanced software solutions and client service for businesses will be invaluable to our company and clients.”
